

From a strategic level an innovation has often a most primary focus and can be typed as: finance, process, product of delivery innovation. In practice most innovations will change something in every type and that makes it hard to keep focus.

This model helps you to find who the owner/sponsor should be within your organization and focus on making the innovation successful in the (near) future.

Invention	A completely new product that is new to the word.	High risk
Innovation	An existing product, but new for the organisation. (no IP)	Medium risk
Improvement	You currently produce this product, but want to improve it.	Low risk
